

Renewal of Vows Ceremony of «Bride» and «Groom» «Last Name»
On «Vow Renewal Date»

Welcome, we are here today to witness «Groom» and «Bride» share again the promises they made to honor and to cherish one another, to respect, to listen to, and above all else to love.

A famous American poet, Susan Polis Schultz once wrote:

“Time passes by and
Our love is stronger than ever
Our love is more tender than ever
Our love is more honest than ever
Our love is more overwhelming than ever
Our love is wilder than ever
Our love is more exciting than ever
Our love is more confident than ever
Our love is more playful than ever
Our love is more meaningful than ever
Time passes by and
Our love is more lasting than ever.”

«Groom», please repeat after me:

I believe in this marriage more strongly than ever. - «Bride», it is with a heart full of joy, - experience and trust – that I once again – pledge myself to you as your loving husband.

«Bride», repeat after me:

I believe in this marriage more strongly than ever. - «Groom», it is with a heart full of joy, - experience and trust – that I once again – pledge myself to you as your loving wife.

Time has passed since you first exchanged rings. You have seen many changes, you have shared many cares and pleasures.

The years ahead will bring fresh links to further bind you. Many more memories to treasure may be ahead of you yet.

The promises that you have made to yourselves and to each other, the lessons you have learned, the strength and determination that you have shared, will serve to strengthen the ties that bind the two of you together.

As dear as you were to each other on your first wedding day, the years you have spent together as husband and wife have only made you more dear to each other.

As you have come here today before your family and friends, to vow again to love each other, and to recommit yourselves to each other, I now pronounce you once again Mr. and Mrs. «Last Name».

May you have many more years of happiness ahead of you.

You may kiss the bride.
